

Red Cross Roll Call Committee Heads Are Announced

Everyone Is Urged to Renew His Membership In The Nation's Aid Organization

Miss Myrtle Brooke, county chapter chairman, announces that organization is now complete for carrying forward the Red Cross Roll call in Shelby County.

The following people will head the various committees for different parts of the county:

In the Montevallo business district, Teamon McCulley and Eddie Mahaffey.

In the Montevallo residence section, Mrs. Jimmie Higgins and Mrs. Hansel Brown.

On the Alabama College campus, Miss Elizabeth Conn.

In Calera, Mrs. Zollie Cowart.

In the eastern part of the county, Senator Karl Harrison of Columbiana has general direction of the work and will supervise committees in the several communities of that part of the county.

The committees will plan a campaign of solicitation in the next few days. All people are urged to prepare for a ready response with paid membership so that the county may register its full quota of members without delay.

Every person who can spare a dollar should join the Red Cross. Remember what the Red Cross did for Montevallo storm sufferers last spring. Remember what it does in every emergency of that kind all over the United States.

The Red Cross program depends upon Roll Call membership for its finances. Do your part by investing a dollar in the greatest organization on earth for the aid of human suffering and misfortune.

Mrs. Mildred Morgan To Lecture Here

"College Today—Marriage Tomorrow" and "What Price Glory on a College Campus" are two of the arresting topics Mrs. Mildred Morgan will discuss with Alabama College girls during a three-day visit next week.

With increasing emphasis on the importance of family relationships and personal adjustments, the campus organizations at Alabama College are keeping abreast of the times by inviting Mrs. Morgan of Iowa City to advise with student and faculty groups. She will speak here on November 20, 21, and 22.

Other discussion topics during Mrs. Morgan's visit will include "Standards for a Normal Family," and "Standards in a Day of Change."

Announcement was made Wednesday of the birth of a five pound baby girl to Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Jackson.

Mr. Reese Woolley returned Wednesday from Mobile where he visited his sister, who has been seriously ill for a few days past.

Miss Louise McCreary of Brewton was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jeter.

6 WEEKS UNTIL CHRISTMAS

TIME TO START SHOPPING!

Dr. Shallcross Pays Visit To Campus

Dr. Ruth Shallcross, director of research for the National Association of Business and Professional Women, is visiting on the campus this week to confer with Dr. Hallie Farmer, state program coordination chairman of the Alabama Business and Professional Women's Club.

Dr. Farmer is in charge of the Alabama investigation of the interesting and vital controversy, "What effect do married women who work have on the general employment situation?"

Fifteen of the forty-eight states are objects of special study. Alabama is one of the chosen fifteen—and the only Deep South state in which a survey will be conducted. At present it is estimated that of the women employed nationally, six per cent are married. One of the goals of the study in Alabama is to determine how nearly the Alabama figure compares with this national figure. Intensive inquiry will be carried on in many Alabama communities, and the results of the survey, synthesized by Dr. Farmer, will be made public through the press and in educational publications.

Business Women To Hold Annual Dinner

The Montevallo Business and Professional Women's Club will hold its annual Public Relations Dinner on Thursday evening, November 23.

Once each year this club holds a dinner at which it has as its guests, representatives from all other organizations of the town, and this dinner is coming to be one of the outstanding social events of the year.

Other special guests at this year's dinner will be Mrs. Carrie K. Andrews, of Montgomery, state president of the Business and Professional Women's Club; the foreign exchange students at Alabama College, and Miss Annie Louise Pruitt, a former president of the Mobile Club.

The dinner will be held at the Baptist Church.

P. T. A. TO MEET ON NOV. 21 AT ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

The next meeting of P. T. A. will be held November 21 at 7:30 p.m. Members are requested to note that this is a night meeting.

The topic will be "Recreation Which the Child of Today May Use as the Adult of Tomorrow."

The speakers will be Miss Elizabeth Utterback, Mr. Frank Baker, Mr. Luther Shaw, Dr. W. D. Jackson, Mr. J. P. Kelly, and Mrs. W. M. Davis.

The hostess chairman for the meeting is Mrs. L. C. Parnell.

AUXILIARY WILL HOLD PUBLIC MEETING TONIGHT

You are again reminded of the public meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary at the Elementary School tonight.

The program is in the interest of the work of the Tuberculosis Association in Shelby County, which is sponsored by the Auxiliary. Mr. Grimley and Dr. Brakefield, of Birmingham, will be the guest speakers. An invitation is extended to everybody.

CIVIC CLUB CONTINUES TO SPONSOR BOY SCOUTS

The Civic Club Wednesday voted to accept the recommendation of the Board of Control that the club again sponsor Boy Scout work in Montevallo.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jeter and Miss Louise McCreary attended the Auburn-Villanova game in Birmingham Saturday.

Miss Jack Bowden had as her week end guests her mother and brother, Mrs. W. S. Bowden and William, of Monroeville.

Miss Jack Bowden, Mrs. W. S. Bowden, William Bowden, and Mr. Johnnie Hardy attended the Auburn-Villanova game in Birmingham Saturday.

ASHLEY JETER CELEBRATES HIS THIRD BIRTHDAY

Ashley Jeter celebrated his third birthday on Saturday afternoon, November 4. After an hour of play, ice cream, cake and chocolates were served to Agee and Pat Kelly, Mike Mahan, Carlisle Towery, Laura Ann Hicks, Jade Elizabeth Higgins, Ed Givhan, Milton Jeter, Pep Jeter, Lois Hoffman, Mary Charles and Martha Jane Mahaffey, Joy Holcomb, Sue Henning, and Ashley Jeter.

ALABAMA COLLEGE ALUMNAE TO MEET WEDNESDAY

The Montevallo chapter of Alabama College Alumnae will meet next Wednesday, November 22, at 7 p.m. in West Main Parlor. All members are urged to be present.

CHEST SUBSCRIPTIONS REACH 85 PER CENT OF GOAL

According to reports Wednesday, present pledges for the Montevallo Community Chest total about 85 per cent of the goal.

In dollars this means that about $1,450 of the requested $1,700 has been subscribed.

Subscriptions at the college are practically all completed. Some renewed effort upon the part of solicitors in the last few days has brought the town's subscriptions up well toward its part of the total asked for.

The campaign will be pushed toward full completion in the next few days. It is believed that the goal will be reached in another week.

Presbyterian Students Install Officers

The Presbyterian Student Association recently entertained its newly elected officers with a supper at the church. Each of the tables was decorated with fall leaves and a small candle was placed in front of each plate. Sandwiches, celery salad, cocoa, cookies, and mints were served. During the supper, Aline Jones played organ music.

After supper, everyone went into the church auditorium for the installation service. Mr. W. J. Kennerly, of the college faculty, installed the officers: President, Marguerite Denney; vice-president, May Lyman Woods; secretary, Joan Franklin; and treasurer, Mittie Byrd Dismukes. After the installation, Dr. J. I. Riddle gave a very inspirational message entitled "Leadership." He urged us to "Press forward toward the mark of the high calling of Jesus." One of the stirring statements in his conclusion was, "A leader must find a source of strength, vision, courage, and hope, then press onward more zealously."

Visitors for the service were Mrs. Nutt and Mrs. Ash of Mobile, and Dr. and Mrs. J. I. Riddle.

Montevallo Wins Over Isabella

Montevallo played a highly touted Isabella team Friday, November 10. The Bulldogs showed exceptional power in their offensive, scoring two touchdowns in the first quarter. The first score came after a beautiful sixty yard run by Dement, who sliced off tackle and cut back to the left and was finally hauled down on the six yard line. Dennis plunged across for the score. Montevallo converted, making the score 7-0. The second score came after a sustained drive. With the ball resting on the four yard line, Dennis again plunged over for the tally. Montevallo converted, making the score 14-0.

Montevallo threatened in the second, third and fourth quarters, but could not force the ball over. The game ended with Montevallo on the long end of a 14-0 score.

Outstanding players for Montevallo were Lovelady, Bearden, Holsambach, and Williamson in the line, while Dement, Dennis, Smith, and Lovelady stood out in the backfield.

District Convention Brings Red Men Leaders Here Saturday

Eva LeGallienne, above, will appear in Palmer Hall Monday in Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler." The play is produced and directed by Miss LeGallienne.

LeGallienne Will Play Here Monday Night

It's too bad that Henrik Ibsen can't be in Montevallo the night of November 20. The late Norwegian playwright would be very interested in Miss Eva LeGallienne's interpretation of his "Hedda Gabler," which the famous star is presenting to a Montevallo audience that evening.

Miss LeGallienne has taken Mr. Ibsen's famous drama of mid-Victorian setting and has streamlined it to a point where it is very much in keeping with the modern decorations of the theatre that houses it. Instead of the author's heroine, a lady whose dress and actions date her as of the last century, local audiences will see a Hedda who slinks about in the very latest of evening gowns, incessantly smokes cigarettes, and frequently comes through with a bit of vernacular that is definitely 20th century.

The major supporting role, that of Eilert Lovborg, is handled by Earle Larimore. Mr. Larimore does well with a very difficult role. Matthew Smith is cast as George Tesman, Hedda's husband. The remainder of the cast includes Marion Evenson, Alice John, Katherine Squire, and James Spottswood.

JUNIOR MUSIC CLUB MEETS

The Montevallo Junior Music Club met on the evening of November 8, at the home of Misses Evelyn and Julia Ward. After a short business session, Sylvia Appleton, the program leader, introduced the subject. Fritz Kreisler. Margaret Bickler, accompanied by Mrs. Hendrick, played an arrangement of "Viennese Melody" by Kreisler.

Delightful refreshments were served to the following members: Mrs. R. A. Hendrick, Misses Anne Appleton, Sylvia Appleton, Eula Bridges, Lydia Bridges, Edythe Carpenter, Sara Rose Cook, Peggy Davis, Myra Frost, Mary Jean Kennerly, Ethelle Nathews, Frances Nybeck, Eloise Shores, the guest, Miss Margaret Bickler, and the hostesses, Misses Evelyn Ward, Julia Ward, and Jackie Woolley.

STUDY CLUB SPONSORS CHRISTMAS LIGHTING

The Study Club is again sponsoring Christmas lighting for the town of Montevallo. Committees have already begun work and report a very pleasing response from the business houses.

Mrs. W. F. Tidwell presented the matter to the Civic Club Wednesday in the form of an appeal for the support of the members.

The club hopes to carry out a lighting and decoration program more extensive than last year. They will complete their appeal for contributions in a few days and expect to have the lights put up about the first of December.

Sam Hall and Judge G. C. Boner Are Among Those to Address Montevallo Tribe

Wauhoma Tribe No. 52, of Montevallo, was host to the District Council of Improved Order of Red Men of Alabama, at the Legion Hut last Saturday.

Prominent among those in attendance was Great Representative to the Great Council of the United States, Sam Hall of Birmingham, who delivered a very much appreciated address in which he portrayed the beauties of Redmanship, and its influence upon the character and progress of our nation from its beginning.

He said in part: "How many of our people realize that this organization is the oldest secret society of purely American origin in the United States; that it was organized in 1764 and was then known as the Sons of Liberty and took their forms and ceremonies from the rites of the primitive red men of the forest?"

Judge G. C. Boner, Great Sachem of Alabama, was present, and in good humor addressed the convention, but grew eloquent at the close when he thundered:

"Do we really appreciate the freedom and prosperity we so lavishly enjoy in this land of the free, where every man, woman and child may worship God in the light of their own consciences? Here we are permitted to speak, write, and peaceably assemble without fear of jails and armed soldiers—for good government and better living.

"Contrast, if you will, how happy we are here in the United States, with those people engaged in the horrors of war across the Atlantic, where dictators rule the land.

"Ours is a patriotic order, and Old Glory proudly waves in every wigwam. At the kindling and the quenching of every council fire we come to attention and salute our flag.

"The three words, Freedom, Friendship, and Charity, the motto of our order, we fully understand and deeply treasure in our hearts. Freedom, what it has brought to us from the Sons of Liberty, their motto and password; Friendship, added during the war of 1812, when we assumed the name of Red Men; and Charity being added last, finished the link. Our organization then in 1834 became the Improved Order of Red Men of the United States of America. It deserves, and should live forever."

At the next meeting to be held in Birmingham on January 13, 1940, the evening session will be devoted to conferring the degrees on both palefaced for the Red Men and Pocahontas, where more than one hundred candidates are expected to be present from all over the state.

A vote of thanks was given to the local tribe for the generous hospitality shown and the corn and venison so plentifully served.

Armistice Program

Hon. R. H. Mangum, of the public relations department of Alabama Power Company, was speaker at the Armistice Day program in Montevallo last Saturday.

The program was held at Palmer Hall at 10:30 a.m. Dr. A. F. Harman, president of Alabama College, introduced Mr. Mangum.

The exercises were opened with two numbers by the Montevallo High School Band, directed by Mr. York Kildea.

The audience sang "The Star-Spangled Banner," with Mr. H. D. LeBaron at the organ.

During the moment of silence when the audience stood in honor of those who have died in the service of our country, Taps was played by Billy Rotenberry.

Invocation and benediction was by Rev. J. M. Shores.

A solo, "Prayer," was sung by Miss Edith Dees.

Conclusion of the exercises was the pledge to the flag, led by Mrs. P. D. Pendleton, president of the American Legion Auxiliary.

THE SENSIBLE WAY

Championing the cause of cotton and cottonseed products, the National Cotton Council has set up a new section on trade barriers and penalties.

The principal activity of this new section will be to increase the use of cottonseed oil, with major emphasis being placed upon efforts to free margarine from its present unjust burdens of taxes and restrictions.

Margarine manufacturers in 1938 consumed 170,000,000 pounds of cottonseed oil. Reliable estimates indicate that use of cottonseed oil in margarine would rise as much as thirty-three and one-third per cent if state restrictions were lifted. If federal taxes were removed, it is estimated that margarine sales would treble.

The Cotton Council is going about this battle against trade barriers in the only sensible way. While successfully combating 29 legislative attempts to further restrict margarine sales during the past year, it has laid a groundwork of economic research on the subject of margarine. Now it has established a new department headed by a widely known authority on the margarine problem.

An educational campaign is about to be launched, telling of the true virtues of this wholesome, nutritious food product. The story will be brought home to the consumer. The injustice of the present scheme of prohibitive restrictions and trade barriers will be shown to the people and their law makers.

It will be a long campaign and a hard one. But only through such a program as the Council outlines can we hope to broaden and to hold this valuable market for American cottonseed. It is too valuable to risk through slipshod methods and hurried schemes.

THE GREENSBORO WATCHMAN REPORTS A DUEL

We regard civilization as something that has been here forever, but it was only a little more than 50 years ago that one of the most sanguinary duels in history was fought in our state. And the principals were members of two of civilization's most highly skilled professions—a doctor and a lawyer.

William E. Yerby, editor of The Greensboro Watchman, ran across an account of the event in the November 22, 1888, issue of his paper the other day and sent it to me. Here it is:

"Dr. Robert Nabers, residing at Montevallo, employed W. W. Shortridge, a lawyer, to collect a few claims against delinquent patients. The returns were not satisfactory and the men quarrelled, but parted without coming to blows.

"Word has just reached here that last Saturday Nabers called at Shortridge's office and the trouble broke out again. They finally agreed to fight with bowie knives in a darkened room near the office. Removing their coats and shoes, the men entered the room and fought blindly, but desperately for nearly 10 minutes.

"Persons living in the lower story heard the noise as the duelists rolled upon the floor and ran upstairs. When the door was broken open Nabers staggered into the office with blood streaming from a dozen gashes in his face and breast. Without saying a word he dashed down stairs, still claspings a gory knife in his hand. Lying upon the floor of the room was Shortridge. His head had been slashed in a fearful manner. The arteries of his neck had been severed, one eye had been gouged out and his hands were cut so terribly that the fingers hung only by the tendons.

"The man was dead. Nabers, after leaving the office, ran out on the street where his bleeding face

Economic Highlights

The neutrality debate, at the beginning, was widely heralded as a potential oratorical battle of the century. Commentators looked back along the tortuous path of American history, recalled the great moments of the past in House and Senate, and freely forecast that another major page in the story of this republic was about to be dramatically written. The page was written all right, but it certainly was not done dramatically. In the view of correspondents at the scene, the quality of debate on both sides was generally very poor. The big issues were obscured by incidents. Apparently the Senate itself was bored by the arguments—on a number of occasions the chamber was practically empty, as some Senator or other talked to vacant desks, while the majority of his colleagues lounged in the cloakroom or went about other business.

Apparently the isolationists in the Senate were unable to swing a single vote. The final vote for the administration neutrality bill was almost exactly what floor leaders confidently forecast weeks ago. And in the House, the majority in favor was even larger than administration leaders, for the most part, had predicted.

The best available evidence indicates that the passage of the bill met with the approval of a considerable majority of the people. All the standard polls have shown a strong sentiment in favor of aiding England and France with all means "short of war."

Big question now is to just what extent the repeal of the arms embargo will benefit American industry. Most experts feel that while it will help, results will not attain the giddy estimates made on the outbreak of war. England and France will buy supplies of war materials here, due to necessity. But they will buy as few as possible, so far as the present is concerned, and will husband their dwindling gold resources. Largest demand will probably be for airplanes, which English and French factories are unable to produce in needed quantities. In fact, several hundred completed planes, ordered long ago, have been waiting in storage for repeal of the embargo. Allied ships are expected to come to our shores to get them soon.

Some think that England and France will not be able to fulfill all their desired orders here, because of our own military expansion program. Men high in the army and navy are known to feel strongly that we should rigidly control export of implements of war until our needs are met.

Military experts are now waiting in suspense to see just what luck Britain and France will have in getting their ships home from the United States. The German U-boat campaign has so far been ominously successful. And it seems to be true that the three German pocket-battleships, which Britain at first thought were bottled up in Reich naval bases, escaped the blockade and are now roaming the seas. These ships are extremely fast. Their fire-power is superior to that of any Allied war ships, save a few modern French and English battleships and big battle cruisers. They have wide cruising ranges, and, apparently, have sources of supply which the Allies have been unable to cut off. It was one of these ships, the Deutschland, which seized the City of Flint. They, plus Germany's submarines, can make the going extremely tough for merchantmen.

At any rate, our own ships seem to be safe. The President closed war zones to United States vessels as soon as the embargo was repealed. The proclamation forbids United States shipping to go to England, France, German, Holland, Belgium, Denmark, Sweden, Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania. It also closes the Baltic sea route to Russia and Finland—these countries may be reached only through the Arctic. The closed area is subject to revision.

So American policy toward the war has finally been legally established. We are theoretically neutral—but from the practical standpoint we are holding out a helping hand to the Allies. It is significant that the controlled German press "played down" the embargo repeal, and continued in its relatively friendly attitude to this country. Apparently Hitler doesn't want to repeat Wilhelm II's mistake of unnecessarily antagonizing us.

Speaking of airplanes, it is reported that the automobile industry is planning to go in for plane manufacture soon, due, of course, to foreign demand. It is a comparatively easy matter for the auto makers to change over plants and gear them to plane production. Also, plant expansion is said to be planned.

Other business news indicates a general confidence that times are going to get better. Thoughtful economists continue to point out that a "war prosperity" is an exceedingly dangerous thing—that industrial expansion to prepare for war buying simply paves the way for a terrific collapse in the future. But that doesn't affect immediate profits.

As a result of all this, reemployment has been going ahead. The unemployed total now is undoubtedly at its lowest level since 1931. And it is still going down.

More than 500,000 bales of cotton, or a twelfth of the total domestic consumption, is used in the manufacture of automobile tires. The National Cotton Council is seeking to halt the invasion of this market by rayon.

Health Department Notes

During the month of October, 127 patients received treatment at the Health Department's venereal disease clinics. During this same time, 131 blood tests for syphilis were made and 17 were found to be positive.

The late summer and fall has brought a decided increase in the number of cases of malaria.

Anyone who has had this disease should remain under the care of his doctor until thoroughly cured. If this is not done, he is apt to have a relapse or a long period of ill health and, in addition, is a constant reservoir of infection from whom mosquitoes may carry the infection to other members of the family or to their neighbors.

The season for common colds is again at hand. Since this disease is highly communicable at times and people affected do not always stay at home, every effort should be made to prevent others contracting the infection. Separate drinking and eating vessels and utensils should be used by the sufferer and properly sterilized; discharges from nose and throat received on paper napkins and burned; the victim should sleep alone and avoid close contact with others as much as possible.

Industrial plants take two-fifths of the cotton consumed in the United States, according to the National Cotton Council.
